Project: Mary Ellen McCormack Building A

Present: Commissioner Anne-marie Lubenau, Commissioner Mikyoung Kim, Commissioner and Jonathan Evans, and Commissioner David Hacin

DISCUSSION:

Commissioners asked that the entrance to building A be more defined and expressive in features and depth of materials. Specifically with attention to the top of the building, in keeping a rhythm to the cornus and other characteristic details. The commissioners asked the design team to reconsider courtyard location in relation to the building's main entrance, and will the courtyard be private or public. There was a request to show renderings of longer views with context. More site planning and placemaking was major feedback from commissioners. Awareness was brought to the development team to evaluate the value of the mature trees on site because of the use of the open space being preserved. This proposed edge space feels equal and not unique. The commissioner asked the team to consider shifting the building to create more amenity space for the residence. Lastly, in future site plans, please add dimensions of the public realm.
